- Eat and drink properly the day before the race in order to arrive at the start well hydrated.
- Put Vaseline on sensitive areas such as armpits, crotch, nipples, etc.
- Keep to your planned pace from the start, especially the first few kilometers, as it is very easy to get carried away, and this wasted energy may be needed at the end of the race.
- Do not take any food supplements (gels, bars, etc.) that you have not tried before.

- For the participants of the Half Marathon (21 kilometers) remember that after the aid station post at kilometer 15 there will be the longest stretch until you reach the next refreshment post. It is about 4 km, in total, up to kilometer 19.
- In the event of any symptoms of discomfort or exhaustion, quickly inform someone from the organization (volunteer, cyclist, police, Civil Protection) that you will meet along the route.
- Enjoy the race. It is a competition or personal challenge, but also a celebration of sport.
- Throw your water bottles in the refreshment areas, if you throw them elsewhere they will not be collected and you may be disqualified.

Enjoy the race!
